The Use of Water In Lendon.

One does not find any period in the history of London when the citizens desired plain cold water as a beyonage. Heer was always the national drinkthey drank small ale for breakfast dinner, and supper; when they could get it they drank strong ale. Of water for washing there was not at this period so great demand as at present. At the same time it is not true to say, as we said a few years ago in the house of commons, that for eight hundred years our people did not wash them-selves.
